The Short Term Exceptional Drug Therapy (STEDT) process is designed to allow consideration of funding for certain therapies where there are no currently existing funding options available through either the public or private systems. It has been developed in direct collaboration with Alberta Health and Wellness (AHW), and is partially funded by a limited term grant from AHW.

Qualification for funding is based on set criteria, and involves a comprehensive and objective review of each request. Funding is dependent upon approval of the request. If approved, the requested medication will be provided based on the terms of approval.

Funding for these therapies is limited to what is agreed when the drug is approved. There is no guarantee that it will be continued beyond the time frame set out in the approval of a request. Neither Alberta Health Services nor AHW will be held responsible for costs for therapy required beyond the funding agreed to with the approval.

*Ambulatory (i.e. outpatients) are responsible for ensuring all other funding options available to them (private or public) have been exhaustively explored before they qualify for STEDT funding.
