GENERAL PHYSICAL THERAPY – COMMUNITY

Alberta Health Services (AHS) Allied Health – Edmonton Zone provides physiotherapy services through a network of contracted private clinics and public facilities. Together with your physiotherapist, you can develop a plan to maximize your physical function.

ACCESS TO SERVICE:

To find out if some of your physical therapy costs will be covered by Alberta Health Services (AHS) call one of the clinics listed and ask for an AHS funded assessment. To see if you qualify for AHS funded treatment, a physiotherapist will assess:

- the impact your injury or condition has on your daily activities.
- the benefits you are likely to get from therapy.

After the assessment, the therapist will complete a Determination of Need form. If your score on this form is 7 or higher, you will qualify for AHS funded treatments.

1. If you do qualify for AHS funded treatments, interventions may be provided individually or in a group. They may include:
 - treatment at the clinic or facility
 - education to help you understand your condition and manage daily living
 - an exercise program or other options
2. If you do not qualify for Alberta Health Services (AHS) funded treatments based on this assessment, you may want to:
 - look into your other options (extended health benefits, etc.) or,
 - seek a second opinion through assessment at another PT clinic that is contracted by AHS.

WHAT DOES AHS COVER AFTER THE INITIAL AHS FUNDED ASSESSMENT?

If you qualify for treatment, AHS will cover:

1. six treatments for clients meeting low-income eligibility criteria per fiscal year (April 1 - March 31)
2. six treatments for orthopedic conditions such as a recent broken bone or a recent designated muscle, bone or joint surgery per fiscal year (April 1 - March 31)
3. six treatments for conditions affecting the central nervous system per fiscal year (April 1 – March 31)
4. six treatments for incontinence or voiding disorders per fiscal year (April 1 – March 31)
5. two treatments for all other conditions per fiscal year (April 1 - March 31)

AHS recognizes that you may require further physiotherapy treatments over those funded by AHS.

- If you need more than the allotted treatments, the extra visits may be covered by other health benefits (see WHAT ARE MY OTHER OPTIONS?).
- If you have no other coverage, you can ask your physical therapist to apply for a review of your case to see if more treatments can be covered.
- If additional treatments are not approved, you will be responsible to cover their cost.

WHAT ARE MY OTHER OPTIONS?

Please be patient as there may be a wait for your AHS funded assessment.

If you do not want to wait for an AHS funded assessment, or you don't qualify after having had your AHS funded assessment, you may choose to pay a physiotherapist privately or use your extended health benefits or your insurance.

- If you were hurt on the job, the Workers' Compensation Board may pay for your treatment.
- If you were injured in a motor vehicle collision, insurance might cover it.
- You may have coverage through other health benefits or insurance.
- You can also choose to pay privately.

Before you make your appointments, be sure you know who will be paying for your physical therapy services.

If you choose to pay privately, check in advance what your fee will be, as providers set their own rates for private clients.

For general information about physical therapy, or to book an assessment, call a clinic or centre listed.
